SIERRA MADRE, CALIFORNIA — THURSDAY, AUG. 13, 1959

12 PAGES — Vol. 52, No. 44

LUCKY SEVEN—A preview of the Civic Club's annual Las Vegas Night party was put on this week by club members who will help run the affair. The party will be this Saturday, Aug. 15, at the home of Mrs. Claude Brown Jr., 49 W. Orange Grove. Only "play" money will be used, of course, and all donations will go to the Civic Club to benefit youth activities and to sponsor other projects. Shown from left are Mrs. H. J. Struthers, Mrs. Dottie Stowell, Mrs. Louise Karelius, Mrs. W. R. Barnes and Mrs. H. L. Dietrich.

Council Meeting Called Off — No Quorum

The scheduled City Council meeting died for lack of a quorum Tuesday night, the first time this has happened in at least four years.

The session was called off at 7 p.m., one hour before starting time, when it was learned that only two of five councilmen could attend. Three make up a quorum.

Two councilmen, Milton Emerson and Mayor C. H. James, are on vacation; and a third, James Abernethy, was out of town. Other councilmen are William Lisle and Webster Vannier.

Among items on the agenda were adoption of the 1959-60 budget and discussion of the proposed new street south of the business district. The City Council will meet next Tuesday at 8 p.m. and also the following Tuesday.

New Street Cost Placed At $37,254

It will cost $37,254 to build the proposed street from Baldwin to Hermosa, behind the Sierra Madre Blvd. business district, an appraiser's report indicated yesterday.

The value of the land and buildings was placed at $22,675; construction of the street, $11,579, and legal and engineering fees plus bonds, $3,000.

THESE FIGURES do not include the cost of water or sewer lines which would be necessary in the multiple housing areas, or the cost of a proposed alley directly behind business places.

Excluded from the district were parcels of land containing 715 front feet which face Esperanza, east of the Hansen property, and one parcel facing Baldwin, south of the proposed street.

The City Council is expected to decide at the next meeting Aug. 18 how the assessment should be spread and whether the city should contribute anything to the cost. The next step is a public hearing which would be scheduled in September.

IF NO PROBLEMS arise at the public hearing to delay or kill the project, the city will begin to acquire property and sell bonds to pay for the street.

Valley Water Election Set December 8

Voters in 15 communities of the San Gabriel Valley will cast their ballots in a special election Tuesday, Dec. 8, to decide whether a proposed Upper San Gabriel Valley Municipal Water District should be formed, Frank G. Bonelli, chairman of the Board of Supervisors, announced yesterday.

The proposed district would take in the incorporated cities of Arcadia, Baldwin Park, Bradbury, Covina, Duarte, El Monte, Industry, Irwindale, La Puente, Monrovia, Rosemead, San Gabriel and South El Monte. It would include the unincorporated communities of Temple City and South San Gabriel.

At the same time, voters will ballot on the election of a Board of Directors.

Author's Club Honors Shippey At Meeting

It was "Lee Shippey Day" yesterday at the meeting of the Author's Club in Hollywood.

Mr. Shippey, author, newspaperman and columnist for the Sierra Madre News, was the speaker at the meeting of the club of which he has been a member for 28 years. He served as vice president most of that time under the presidencies of Irvin S. Cobb, Rupert Hughes and Paul I. Wellman.

Mr. Shippey's latest book, "Luckiest Man Alive," will be released in October by West-lore Press. It may be purchased locally at Perry's Stationery Store.

Local Theater Sets Record; Has Full House

The Sierra Madre Theater played to a full house of paying customers at the "Kiddies Show" yesterday, thus setting some sort of record for attendance at the local movie.

More than 400 youngsters attended the show which started at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday morning features for children will continue until the week before school starts.

On Saturday, Sept. 12, there will be a "Back to School" show starting at 12:30 p.m., free of charge. Next Wednesday, the theater will feature an Abbott and Costello movie.

Beware of Summer Thieves, Police Warn

Sierra Madreans were warned by Police Chief Gordon McMillan yesterday to be wary of giving information to phone or door callers regarding themselves or their neighbors.

Although only one burglary occurred in Sierra Madre during July, Chief McMillan pointed out that the sneak thieves have been hard at work in the surrounding communities and have taken advantage of vacationing families to burglarize their homes.

In Arcadia, for example, a series of daylight robberies netted more than $2,000 in radios, televisions, cameras and other items as the result of raids on homes where families were out of town.

THE COMMON practice of today's thieves, Chief McMillan said, is to phone to see if an answer can be obtained. When the phone is answered, the caller generally hangs up immediately.

"We would rather check out many phone calls," McMillan said, "than miss a burglar."

Another common practice is for thieves to seek information in person. Usually the information is asked of neighbors. If the solicitation reveals family absence, the thief is given a perfect setup.

Some inquiries, of course, arouse suspicion immediately. This week, for example, a man rapped on a door at 4:30 a.m. asking information about "relatives" he said lived nearby. By the time the woman who answered the door had called police, the man had disappeared.

OTHER INQUIRIES, however, may appear perfectly harmless, McMillan said.

Water Use Shows 11% Increase in Year

Sales Tax Receipts At Record

Sales tax receipts increased for the third consecutive year here, it was reported yesterday.

In the San Gabriel Valley, 12 cities set a new high of $3,322,936 for the fiscal year 1958-59, shattering the record high of the previous year when they totaled $2,602,079.

In Sierra Madre, tax receipts for fiscal 1958-59 totaled $45,660.13, compared with $44,607.35 a year earlier and $41,732.31 in 1956-57, the first year the city collected the tax.

TOPPING the cities in the San Gabriel Valley were El Monte and West Covina, with both showing gains that topped the $100,000 mark. Reflected was the fact that this is the first year that receipts from the Eastland Shopping Center have been recorded in West Covina.

Azusa was the single exception. Sales tax receipts in that city dropped from $201,209 in 1957-58 to $190,103 this year.

HIGHEST PERCENTAGE boosts were made by Duarte and Irwindale, with each increasing its receipts over the previous year by more than 200 per cent.

Monrovia showed an increase of from $377,730 to $396,872, and Arcadia from $449,047 to $463,237.

Other cities and their increases are:

West Covina, $336,302 to $504,400.
El Monte, $368,843 to $501,302.
Covina, $368,458 to $400,243.
Irwindale, $130,859 to $331,942.
Baldwin Park, $148,072 to $163,096.
Glendora, $101,858 to $120,646.
La Puente, $61,109 to $87,729.
Duarte, $28,542 to $70,047.

Local Coffee Shop Reopens Today

The Sierra Madre Coffee Shop will reopen today under the direction of Mrs. Esther Eppard.

The restaurant will be open from 7 a.m. until 8 p.m., with the exception of Sunday when the opening hour will be 11 a.m. A special merchants luncheon will be served daily.

Bonelli Raps Non-Support Of Proposal

Supervisor Frank Bonelli is angry over the scant attention his reapportionment plan has received in several area cities, including Sierra Madre and Pasadena.

Two weeks ago, the Sierra Madre City Council "buried" Bonelli's request for support, and Tuesday Pasadena city directors did likewise.

BONELLI, in an anguished letter to Pasadena directors, accused the League of California Cities of aligning themselves with the northern "cow counties" when they opposed his "20-20" reapportionment plan.

The Los Angeles County chapter of the league also recently voted "no action" on Bonelli's plan, and commented:

"The supervisor's plan is not necessarily the best one."

Pasadena Mayor Ray G. Woods said the consensus of opinion at the county league meeting was that if Bonelli favors reapportionment so heavily, he should "start at home" by increasing the membership of the County Board of Supervisors to 9 or 11 members.

WOODS SAID he doubts that support for the Bonelli plan is "snowballing" as the supervisor claimed in his letter.

Bonelli has proposed that northern and southern California be split evenly in the State Senate with 20 representatives each. The less populous counties heavily outweigh Los Angeles County in Senate representation.

No Shortage Seen In Near Future

Water consumption in Sierra Madre during fiscal 1958-59 increased by more than 48,000,000 gallons, City Administrator Lawrence C. Bevington reported yesterday.

No water shortage is foreseen here, however, in the immediate future. The city gets water from four wells, two mountain tunnels and the spreading grounds.

In 1958-59, Sierra Madreans used 620,375,492 gallons of water as against 571,590,184 gallons in the previous year. On a per capita basis, each resident here used 210.56 gallons of water a day, compared with 183.48 gallons in 1957-58.

GREATER WATER consumption also means more income to the city. Sierra Madre, in fact, took in $29,777.32 more from water bills in 1958-59 than in the same period a year earlier. Total amount collected in the latest period was $165,347.88, compared with $137,570.56 in 1957-58.

A small portion of the increase is superficial and can be attributed to more accurate metering and less leakage, but he major boost in consumption occurred because of the unusually hot, dry weather.

This season, for example, we have had only 12.87 inches of rain, while last year rainfall measured 32.14 inches. Temperatures also were generally higher in the 1958-59 period and promise to be higher still in 1959-60.

WATER LOSS through faulty meters and reservoir and pipe line leakage decreased in 1958-59 to 9.14 per cent, compared with 11.65 per cent.

The decrease was the result of an extensive repair program carried out by the

City Boosts Salaries by $29,371

Salaries of city personnel will be increased by a total of $29,371 under the new city budget, it was reported yesterday.

The city will add one new employee during the year, a fire marshal. He has not yet been hired. Otherwise the number of city employees remains the same at 45.

In general, pay increases averaged 7½ per cent with the biggest share going to the Police Department in an effort to bring the police scale up to the amount paid by surrounding cities. The starting salary of patrolmen was raised from $370 a month to $400, and other police salaries were increased by approximately the same amount.

Each city department shows an increase in the new budget, with the exception of the Water Department where there is a $4,169 decrease. Under the recent reorganization, the number of employees in the Water Department was decreased from eight to seven. One employee, however, was added to the Park Department.

City Administrator Lawrence C. Bevington also received a pay increase of from $917 to $1,000 a month. He receives $175 monthly as city engineer and $825 as city administrator.

TOO COMPLICATED is the opinion of Supervisors Frank G. Bonelli and Warren M. Dorn, shown examining the only Los Angeles County flag in existence. The supervisors plan a county-wide contest for the design of an "adequate and fitting" county flag. The present one, they say, is too complex and doesn't contain the county seal. The existing flag is red, white and blue.

We Praise Thee, Sir Richard

Richard Nixon is home from the bandlands of Russia.

He succeeded in piercing the Iron Curtain, smiting the Philistines and turning the other cheek, all in one fell swoop. Sir Richard, in short, is a hero, and, painful as it is to admit, he did a good job.

HE REPRESENTED the United States in a foreign and presumably hostile nation with dignity, forcefulness, wit and some charm. He proved once again that he is a politician of the highest mettle, resourceful, intelligent and persevering.

He and Khrushchev got along well together, possibly because they are both intensely pragmatic individuals who recognize that the morals we in the United States are so fond of clasp to our breasts do not in fact exist in the arena of international politics. (Both men, of course, can utter platitudes with the best of them when it seems necessary to do so.)

Our vice president, it appears, accomplished three objectives by his visit to Russia.

HE HELPED—with the acquiescence of Mr. K., to be sure—ease tensions between this nation and the U.S.S.R., and because of the overwhelming and apparently uncensored press coverage he received, it was revealed that the Russians are human after all. They too, it seems, want peace.

His own candidacy for the GOP Presidential nomination was undoubtedly furthered. If he is nominated, his visit to Russia may also help him win votes, even though the election is, politically speaking, a long way off.

He succeeded in reversing a policy which was dear to the heart of John Foster Dulles and apparently to President Eisenhower also. For Mr. Nixon just about committed the President to a summit meeting with Khrushchev.

HE DID THIS, he says, not on his own initiative, but with the blessings of President Eisenhower. If so, it was a master stroke and illustrates that the Administration is not as intractable as has been assumed. I prefer to believe, though, that the hand of Richard Milhouse Nixon was more deft in this case than the eye.

In any event, Mr. Nixon proved himself of Presidential timber. I humbly congratulate him and at the same time sincerely hope it won't be necessary to do so again.—H.W.E.

Trees, Stars and Integration

There are several trillion celestial bodies in the universe of which the earth is merely a speck no larger than a grain of sand. We are learning to shoot objects into this vastness and may some day land a manned rocket on Mars or Venus.

On earth itself we are making mighty efforts to avoid a war which undoubtedly would be puny and insignificant in relation to the heavens, but which could well end the tenure of man on his own planet.

NATIONALLY, we must face such complex problems as racial integration, labor legislation, a water shortage, over-population, dope addiction, alcoholism and a host of others.

It seems, though, that we are more concerned with the trite, the trivial, the problems close at hand. And perhaps it's just as well or nobody would read this newspaper and, indeed, most of us would soon find ourselves in mental institutions if we spent all our time trying to solve the ills of the world.

All of which brings up the subject of trees, city trees, to be specific, planted in our parkways in an effort to beautify Sierra Madre.

A couple of weeks ago I wrote that the city had purchased "more than 1,000" trees at a total cost of "$3,000 or $3 per tree."

I'VE BEEN taken to task for that statement which, it turns out, is incorrect. I'm happy to correct the error now.

A check of city records reveals the following:

Since the tree planting program started in August, 1956, the city has purchased 976 trees at a total cost of $3,372.09, including sales tax. This comes to $3.46 a tree which, I believe, is still a bargain.—H.W.E.

A 'Positive' Identification

In Felony Court in New York City the other day a grocer looked at a defendant a few feet away from him and said twice that he was "positive" this was one of two men who held him up at gun point in his store.

An attorney from the Legal Aid Society produced records from the Department of Correction which established about as conclusive an alibi as can be imagined—the defendant was in jail at the time the robbery took place.

This is far from the first time a witness has been mistaken in an identification of which he or she felt certain. There are cases of people who look remarkably alike. Observation under excitement or in semi-darkness may not be reliable. There may even be an element of vindictiveness, love of limelight, or desire to shift blame.

Men have served sentences for crimes they were proved later not to have committed. This is bad enough. But when the crime is murder and a death sentence is involved, there may be no opportunity to rectify a mistake of identification. One more question mark about capital punishment.—Christian Science Monitor.

DEMOCRAT FOR NIXON

Knowledge of the workings of Party conventions which give us the candidates for whom we must vote, balanced against a little knowledge of the inner workings of the mind of Richard Nixon, may give us a lot of insight into what might be the lot of the "common man" under a Nixon-headed federal government.

Knowledge of the workings of Party conventions discloses that candidates who aren't in harmony with the real Party bosses just aren't nominated. By a "real party boss" I mean a representative of whatever economic group happens to be in control at the moment.

THE CONTEST for the Presidential nomination has always been a contest between rival financial and business camps with no consideration for the "common people" beyond that expediently necessary for vote getting. The record is also replete with substantial donations by the Harrimans, Rockefellers, du Ponts, Morgans, etc. to BOTH parties directly as a hedge for their future welfare under either, indirectly buying key ambassadorial and ministerial posts.

Knowledge of the inner workings of Richard Nixon's mind can only be deduced from the record. Still in his 30's, fresh from the Navy, he (or his staff with his acquiescence) conducted a slanderous campaign in California to gain a Congressional seat from Helen Gahagan Douglas. Mrs. Douglas' record disclosed nothing more serious than a pro-communist man voting history, but in those McCarthy times it seems that was enough to be called a "Communist," which was the issue used to leap-frog Nixon into Congress.

NIXON THEN (or his staff with his acquiescence), knowing a good thing when he saw it, was spring-boarded into the vice presidency through publicity gained in the eventual conviction of Alger Hiss. Just how time spent in digging up anti-Hiss evidence, the validity of some of which is still open to question, was of more benefit to the "common man" than time which could have been spent in promoting legislation for improvement of national health, housing, education, etc., is hard to say. The timing was right to convince the party bosses that here was a running-mate who would not hurt the Eisenhower ticket—now Nixon is vice president under a man who may end up doing the party more harm than any one since U. S. Grant.

Be that as it may, Nixon is now in a position to DO something for the common man. Thank heavens he isn't a golfer! He would not be in this position had he not correctly gauged the public mind years ago regarding communism and campaigned accordingly.

NOW WE GET to the guts of the matter. I would venture a guess that Nixon to-day, especially in view of last year's Democratic landslide all over the country, is thinking that now finally may be the time to make some pro-worker gestures.

How else can one account for his present pro-McDonald stand in the steel strike and his not too anti-Communist utterance in Russia? as to have a Rockefeller-National City Bank man as President. At least the party bosses think Rockefeller would be in "harmony."

I'm still in doubt as to the real, permanent end objective Nixon may be seeking, but if by being a heel as an individual when necessary to get in a position whereby for the majority, and he proceeds then actually to DO some good, I'd be for him. He would have to admit then, however, that "the end justifies the means."

Finally, the whole set up may become academic when he can do some real good the results are in. Don't forget—if Nixon is successful in all he's now cleverly doing, he'll get the REPUBLICAN NOMINATION. Just how nearly tantamount to election will the Republican nomination be next November?

Lee Shippey asks What Do You Think?

By Lee Shippey

Years ago, when a big wind toppled two big pepper trees in our Triangle—where the Pacific Electric station used to stand—it was proposed that the place where one had stood, in front of The News office, be paved and made into a parking space.

Then, through the columns of this week's guide to happiness, I pleaded that one extra parking space wouldn't do any real good, while the trees shading our Triangle were our city's chief mark of distinction and, among other things, reminded visitors that the composer of "Trees" lived here.

That was before Oscar Rasbach moved away, Miss Thomasella Graham, then on the Planning Commission, and others rallied to my support and "Miss Tommy" personally supervised the planting of the pepper tree which now stands there. Many times thereafter this column pleaded that the aging pepper trees along many of our streets were losing their pep and urged that the residents of every block get together and decide what trees they wished, with Planning Commission approval.

So now I am happy to applaud Sierra Madre's tree-planting program and feel it will bless the entire city, no matter where the trees came from. For 30 years we talked of the need of trees without doing anything about it. Now I think we should all be grateful to those who have taken action.

IT WAS the beautiful trees, especially oaks, which made Lucky Baldwin declare that Rancho Santa Anita was the nearest thing to Paradise he had found. Lucky is said to have loved only three things, horses, trees and pretty women, in the order named, and he shocked ranchers who were clearing their land of trees by ordering his employees to plow around them and leave them standing.

To judge by the trees where he built his home, N. C. Carter, who bought all that is now Sierra Madre from Baldwin, must have been equally fond of trees. Sierra Madre owes it to its past to have beautiful trees on every street and in practically every yard.

FREDDIE LA LONE was on "To Tell the Truth," nationally broadcast, last week and all of us can be glad and proud. If anyone deserves national recognition for unselfish and devoted efforts which have saved many lives, Freddie deserves a place near the top of the list.

A few months ago Readers Digest told of a search and rescue team—at Dartmouth College, I believe—and when I read the article I felt like writing the Digest that Freddie's team has done far better—but, of course, being lazy and forgetful, I never wrote. Freddie's team has operated in much bigger and more rugged mountains, it was launched with no thought of compensation, it required the sacrifice of a great deal of time for training, and we can all be proud of it.

NO DOUBT you've read of dangerous sharks in La Jolla waters, of which we get a fine view from our front porch. But I'm really surprised there are so many there. After pricing some of the real estate there, I assumed they must all be on land.

I DON'T think like likes to have Nixon—or anyone—tell him what to do, especially weeks after Harriman gave him the same advice.

Around the Square

By Tommy Ann Miller

One of the dampest tales of the week concerns a conscientious teen-ager who hired out for yard work to some new customers. First days on the job he set an automatic rainbird to sprinkling the lawn and went about mowing and snipping elsewhere. But the rainbird gadget goofed and instead sent the water into an open bedroom window.

By the time the youth discovered it, the steady spray had inundated the bedroom—rugs, bed, etc.—and worst of all, the homeowners weren't due back until nightfall.

Luckily, the boy had a quick-thinking mother who rushed to the rescue and helped him mop up, squeeze out, and strip the bed. Double lucky, he's still retained as a yeoman of the yard by the understanding customers.

Moral: A rainbird out of hand is better off.

SEEGMILLERS SETTLE. Who bought the Eastwood house? Keith and Nancy Seegmiller—who moved here last week from their 17-acre farm in Bennington, Vermont. Helping fill the roomy Spanish stucco (with the blooming giant oak) are: Lisa, 6; Sari, 4; Scott, 2, and Tod, 1. Nancy originally comes from Boston, and Keith from Washington, D.C. He is with the Warren Wire Company, Alhambra.

DRILL CHILL. Ten days in Alaska netted Henry Hobson, 270 E. Laurel, a bedding-down dose of Alaskan flu (a colder bug) and has been under a doctor's care this week. Mr. Hobson, a geologist, has made several trips to Alaska this year on General Petroleum oil drilling ventures.

HOWARD WALSHOK was just appointed State Inheritance Appraiser for Los Angeles County (downtown branch) by State Controller Alan Cranston. Mr. Walshok came here four years ago and lives on N. Sunnyside with wife, Florence, and 16-year-old son, Marco. Attorney-Appraiser Walshok has been practicing law in the Los Angeles area for 26 years.

VACATIONING local religious leaders reportedly taking a refreshing pause from the pulpit include: Rev. George Lindsay of the Congregational Church, Rabbi Charles Stead of Temple Beth Israel, Rev. Ray Hansen of Lutheran Church and Rev. Donald Ostrander of Trinity Presbyterian Church.

FELINE FIXTURE. A middle-aged cat seems to be part of the goodwill and fixtures whenever the house at 550 N. Hermosa is sold. The tabby preferred to stay when the Al Millers sold the property to the Haymakers several years ago (in fact the cat traveled miles to return to the house when the family moved him out of town). Then when the Haymakers recently sold and moved to Denver, the cat stayed on to greet the new owners as the house's mouser.

THREE LOCAL families reportedly pooled equipment for a week of camping (mit der kinder) on Lake Tahoe's shores: the John Grjalvas, John Grammas and Ed Rambeaus.

WHAT PRICE POSTAGE? When Sally Dewey sent a $15 payment to the City of Sierra Madre for extra hauling they refused to accept the envelope and marked it "return to sender." Reason? Sally had accidentally affixed only a three-cent stamp on the letter and the company apparently was loathe to pay the additional one-cent postage due.

AN OLD FRIEND, the giant pepper tree on the northeast corner of Baldwin and Highland, has been felled in the cause of progress—but not without a struggle. Even during the lengthy preliminary branch cutting it sent out more green life shoots, and it kept six men working hours (choking and tugging with chains and tractor) before toppling. When it finally lay on its side—the fleshy pink bark bleeding from each saw slice—the enormous tap roots continued to clutch at the earth.

The pepper tree will be missed—by the children who used to hide behind its hoary trunk and scramble up the roots—by the pedestrians who paused for breath in

Is Subsidy to Railroads 'Socialism'?

By Robert G. Spivack

Washington
"I'VE BEEN WORKING ON THE RAILROAD"—Judging by the propaganda put out by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers, all American industry believes in the private enterprise system and is opposed to government interference. We are constantly told that federal school programs, social welfare legislation and even help for small farmers is undermining, if not actually subverting, our economy.

Big businessmen, however, apparently do not believe this propaganda themselves. Whenever they have encountered financial troubles they have gone to the government and asked to be bailed out. This was true in the 30s when the banks were failing. It is true once again as the American railroads find themselves in more and more trouble because of competition from the airlines and trucking industry.

The railroads, many of whom got their franchises, rights-of-way and other privileges from the government, are once again clamoring for subsidies and special treatment. They point out that other segments of American industry, including those with far fewer financial troubles, have received subsidies.

So they, too, want a Federal handout.

THE PLEAS for help from top railway executives would be more impressive however, if they were inclined themselves to accept salaries more in keeping with the impoverished circumstances of which they complain. Yet recent reports to the Interstate Commerce Commission disclose that even on those railroads near bankruptcy the top executives are all drawing higher salaries than the President of the United States.

This is what the reports show: (These figures do not include "expenses.")

Pennsylvania Railroad—James M. Symes, president—salary $126,398, "other" compensation, $3,500.

New York Central RR—Alfred E. Perlman, president—salary, 125,000, "other" compensation $6,010.

Union Pacific RR—A. E. Stoddard, president—salary, $137,500, "other" compensation, $2,750.

Southern Pacific RR—Donald J. Russell, president—salary, $125,000 and "other," $15,000.

Atchafalpa, Topeka and Santa Fe RR—F. G. Gurley, chairman of the board—salary, $135,000; E. S. Marsh, president, salary, $110,000.

Chesapeake and Ohio RR—Walter J. Touhy, president—salary, $114,732, and "other," $38,400.

These are fairly typical of the pay at the pinnacle of the railroad industry. The New York Central also has 51 other executives drawing more than $20,000 a year; the Pennsylvania has 102 in the above-$20,000 brackets, the Santa Fe has 47 in this category and the Union Pacific 51.

THE PUBLIC BE DAMNED—it was old Commodore Vanderbilt, a tycoon of an earlier era, who is credited (or libeled) with the comment that the "public be damned" if it did not like the service it was getting from his enterprises. This attitude still persists among the railroad czars. As new competition developed they made no serious efforts to keep up or improve service, for commuters or cross-country travelers.

They sulked and waited and continue to draw their high pay.

ONE OF the men mentioned as a possible Democratic "dark horse" presidential candidate, Gov. Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey, has now proposed an ambitious plan to subsidize the commuter railroads in his state to the tune of some, $630,000,000 in the next 28 years. He wants surpluses diverted from the New Jersey Turnpike Authority.

The plan may or may not be good. But it seems to me that if the public is to subsidize the railroads to this extent, it should have a big say in their management and ownership. So far all the plans I have read about make no mention of this point. The railroad executives apparently regard such suggestions as "socialistic." Are outright subsidies less "socialistic"?

Urges Selling Job for Khrushchev

By Edgar W. Hiestand

Rep., 21st Dist. Calif.

LABOR REFORM LEGISLATION: As you read this the final, crucial battle for labor reform is underway in the House of Representatives. Whatever comes out probably will be the last word in labor for many years. I am fighting for the bipartisan Landrum-Griffin bill, but will support any bill that will do the job. However, I will not sell out the working men and women of this country by voting for a weak, inadequate bill. If the final bill is not real labor reform, fair to all concerned, I'll vote against it.

KRUSHCHEV VISIT: The pending Khrushchev visit to this country may be a good thing, and it may not. But the issue has been decided so it is unnecessary to debate it further. He is coming. All we can do is work and pray that his trip will show him the real America; our strength, our progress, our determination to live and if need be to die, for our country and for our way of life. If this gets through to him, let us hope it will ease the tension and serve the cause of peace.

It would be a foolish mistake to engage in childish demonstrations that could get out of hand and turn into something more serious.

There are in this country many people who harbor deep, justifiable, and volcanic hatred for Nikita Khrushchev and everything he stands for. There are wives, mothers, brothers, fathers, and friends of American flyers shot down in Eastern Europe. There are many patriots who would cheerfully see the Soviet dictator dead and in Hades, because of the savage treatment of political and war prisoners, and the brutal methods of communism.

And we have in this country thousands of refugees from the Soviet Union and satellite nations. These people were persecuted. Their close relatives were persecuted, and in many cases are still suffering under the heel of the monster communists.

This powder-keg of hatred could be ignited during the Khrushchev visit. One rock-thrower could set it off. We have seen the effects of a frenzied mob, in Caracas, Venezuela and Baghdad, Iraq. It behooves us to exercise every precaution to see that such does not happen here.

If Khrushchev comes to Los Angeles, let's treat him with restraint and show him that Southern Californians are a temperate, peace loving people, slow to anger, but strong and vigorous and determined. In other words, let's do a selling job on him. In my opinion that's about the best we can hope to attain from a Khrushchev visit to our state and nation.

Trail Marker Tells of City's Past

(The Sierra Madre News welcomes back Bill Wark and his popular column, "On the Trails." This week's article tells of the dedication of the Mt. Wilson memorial plaque. Subsequent articles will recount past history of Sierra Madre, the mountains behind it and of the men and women who pioneered in this area.)

By Bill Wark

Sunday afternoon, June 28, 1959, near the end of the Pioneer Days, two groups, the Sierra Madre Historical Society and the Search and Rescue Team, gathered together near the east end of Carter St. for a very special occasion—the dedication and presentation to our city of the beautiful Mt. Wilson Trail Monument, the only monument telling a part of Sierra Madre's colorful past.

This monument, consisting of an inscribed bronze plaque placed on a large granite boulder, taken from the banks of the Little Santa Anita, marks the fulfillment of a dream, the completion of a most important project by our local Historical Society.

Mrs. Randolph Wood, retiring president of the Historical Society, expressed deep appreciation to the Lions and Kiwanis Clubs for their help and to Edward Voorhees, who spent many hours compiling the words the shade of its pungent foliage—and by tinier creatures who lived in its branches and hollows.

"It was old—it had to go," said one male spectator. "Besides, it was tearing up the sidewalk."

"Maybe so," mused another man, "but my kids will be grown up before there's another tree here big enough to climb."

now permanently inscribed on the plaque. Mrs. Wood then introduced C. W. Jones, Sierra Madre's first mayor, as master of ceremonies.

THE GROUP was deeply touched as Mr. Jones, standing in the bright summer sun, recalled parts of the history of the famous old trail and of Sierra Madre in its early struggling days. In those days, the rich and the poor, the young and old, came to Sierra Madre to regain their health in the clean mountain air. Many tent houses dotted the land.

With the ever increasing flow of people and the water supply steadily diminishing, they turned to the hills seeking the pure, sweet water from the Little Santa Anita, touching off the bitter water fight with "Lucky" Baldwin that continued on through the years even after Baldwin's death, finally ending in favor of Sierra Madre.

Mr. Jones told of Mr. Chantry, after whom Chantry Flats was named, and of the many hikers, and early pack trains who used to plod up and down our mountain trails.

"The passing of the burro from the Sierra Madre scene, stirs inside much the feeling of loss that accompanied the removal of the ferry boats from San Francisco Bay. That shaggy little fellow so long suffering, so able to take it, so shiftless, so abused with a martyr look in his slow burning eyes was very much a part of the color of our pioneer days. His unearthly trumpeting in the early dawn arouses in the camper a sense of expectancy which the clear washed mountain air brings."

IN THE ABSENCE of Fred LaLone, Mr. Jones introduced Bill Wark, who expressed the thoughts of the entire team when he said:

"There is little doubt that today is the brightest day in the history of our Search and Rescue Team. That the Historical Society, the people who built this lovely town, thought enough of our little team to place our name on this monument is a higher honor than we could have ever dreamed of. Thanks to you, the name of our team will long endure. We sincerely hope that our team will forever be an example of all that is good and worthy of this honor. God bless you and thank you for believing in us."

MR. JONES then presented the monument to our present mayor, Mr. James, who gratefully accepted it for the City of Sierra Madre. The program was closed with a beautiful prayer by Rev. George Lindsay.

Many events will come and go and be soon forgotten, but the Mt. Wilson Trail Monument will stand on down through the long procession of days and years silently telling its story, a story of early Sierra Madre, a credit to our Historical Society.

KATHERINE

Your lovely name, in all its varied forms — Catherine, Kathryn, Katrina, Karen, Kitty, and so on — signifies "a Queen." Three have reigned in England, two in Russia; while the stage and screen have their own royalty in Cornell, Dunham, Carlisle, Grayson and Hepburn. Kathleen Norris is probably the monarch of all female novelists in point of output; and the creator of the "princess" of all little girls, "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," was Kate Douglas Wiggin.

The Katherine whose realm is her own home is the most important Queen of all. Hers is a wise and loving rule. That's why she holds a savings account here, and adds to it regularly. She's looking ahead to the future of her loyal "subjects" — her family. She knows that with us her savings dollars bring in high "revenue," and are protected, as if by a "palace guard," with our sound management, ample reserves, and FSLIC insurance.

Religious Science teaches how God's personalness may become a real experience as the individual gives himself to living in harmony with spiritual principles. Through so living, the promise "God is a very present

Works of Local Painters Emphasize the Traditional

By Edward Lloyd Voorhees

In the July-August show by 21 Sierra Madre painters at the Public Library Gallery there is little evidence of departure, in the main, from the traditional representation of nature and man's handiwork by the mediums of oil, pastel, watercolor, tempera and crayon. Here the conservative artist, using blends and variations of techniques and materials familiar to painters since Cimabue and Giotto of the 1200's, and earlier, endeavors with varying success to represent the object as it appears to his eyes or appeals to his mood. The differences in painters' eyes and intentions accounts for the differences in achieving "realism" in the painting and the nature of the viewer's response.

TO SELECT but three at random, among many others here that are stimulating to commentary:

"After the Rain" by Renee Tallantyre is a scene of alternating land and water, with boats and bridges—all in whites, smoke-pale blues and grays—leading the eye upward to a high sky line, in a delicately shredded use of watercolor and composition somewhat similar to the 16th and 17th century manner of the classic Japanese prints.

The attempt makes comparison interesting, and evokes a mood. Nathan Jacobs' "Martini Market" blends the hot and cool colors of burning beach sand, the bright costume of the vendor, her head basket of bright-colored fruits, the living green of the bunch of bananas cradled in her bent right arm, and the coconut palms in the background—all done with a poster-like simplicity and directness that yet suggest a rudimentary sketch for a jungle scene by Henri Rousseau (1844-1910).

The dark vendor's broad smile and headpiece may evoke mild amusement in the spectator, recalling that the late Carmen Miranda, Brazilian dancer and actress, used such head baskets of tropical fruits and flowers as the motif of her amusing hats.

"THE OLD Scissor Grinder" by Ray Du Shane expresses humor in another key, that of the lately familiar but now quaint and "old-fashioned" custom that shows in clear hard light all the figures and their surroundings in the midday village street—the bespectacled old man with his steady fingers pressing on just the right parts of the scissors at the grindstone; the emery wheels and oil can on the ground, with the bell to arouse customers to his approach; the two small children fascinated by the sight, and the "wise" teenager with a superior air.

It all points the painter's preference for what he has chosen to conserve and use from centuries of traditional representation in painting, modified by his own individuality.

IN PAINTING, as in poetry and sculpture and music, much that was for a time sensational and popular has been discarded by the way-side. Wide and deep interest in painting that represents nature has always existed from the first and is preferred by the majority today.

They may modify but not erase public taste for the familiar, the admired, the beloved, and the feared in nature and man. The Sierra Madre painters seem to be mainly for perpetuating these objectives.

THE FOLLOWING painters and titles are participating:

Margaret Ascher, "Untitled"; Ruby Andresen, "Vacation Country"; John Christianson, "Places and Spaces"; Ray Du Shane, "The Old Scissor Grinder"; Alfred James Dewey, "Portrait Study"; Nathan Jacobs, "Martini Market"; Blanche Lupfer, "After the Rain"; Beatrice Ward McIvor, "Meal at the Mission"; Lydia Marieq, "Still Life"; Hazel Morley, "September"; Madeleine Pichard, "Desert Canyon"; Marguerite Randolph, "After-Glow"; Cornelia Reimer, "Mountain Mystery"; Renee Tallantyre, "After the Rain"; Ted Velasquez, "Figure Study"; Myrtle Weese, "Meditation"; Marvin Weese, "Morning Star"; Alan Wood, "Woman with Green Shawl"; Grace Webber, "Snowscape".

Library Art . . .

Works of Local Painters Emphasize the Traditional

By Edward Lloyd Voorhees

In the July-August show by 21 Sierra Madre painters at the Public Library Gallery there is little evidence of departure, in the main, from the traditional representation of nature and man's handiwork by the mediums of oil, pastel, watercolor, tempera and crayon. Here the conservative artist, using blends and variations of techniques and materials familiar to painters since Cimabue and Giotto of the 1200's, and earlier, endeavors to represent the object as it appears to his eyes or appeals to his mood. The differences in painters' eyes and intentions accounts for the differences in achieving "realism" in the painting and the nature of the viewer's response.

TO SELECT but three at

random, among many others here that are stimulating to commentary:

"After the Rain" by Renee Tallantyre is a scene of alternating land and water, with boats and bridges—all in whites, smoke-pale blues and grays—leading the eye upward to a high sky line, in a delicately shredded use of watercolor and composition somewhat similar to the 16th and 17th century manner of the classic Japanese prints.

The attempt makes comparison interesting, and evokes a mood. Nathan Jacobs' "Martini Market" blends the hot and cool colors of burning beach sand, the bright costume of the vendor, her head basket of bright-colored fruits, the living green of the bunch of bananas cradled in her bent right arm, and the coconut palms in the background—all done with a poster-like simplicity and directness that yet suggest a rudimentary sketch for a jungle scene by Henri Rousseau (1844-1910).

The dark vendor's broad smile and headpiece may evoke mild amusement in the spectator, recalling that the late Carmen Miranda, Brazilian dancer and actress, used such head baskets of tropical fruits and flowers as the motif of her amusing hats.

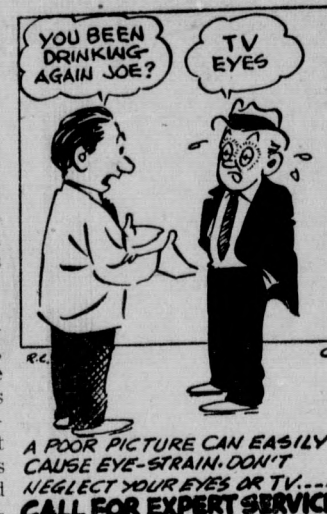

"THE OLD Scissor Grinder" by Ray Du Shane expresses humor in another key, that of the lately familiar but now quaint and "old-fashioned" custom that shows in clear hard light all the figures and their surroundings in the midday village street—the bespectacled old man with his steady fingers pressing on just the right parts of the scissors at the grindstone; the emery wheels and oil can on the ground, with the bell to arouse customers to his approach; the two small children fascinated by the sight, and the "wise" teenager with a superior air.

It all points the painter's preference for what he has chosen to conserve and use from centuries of traditional representation in painting, modified by his own individuality.

IN PAINTING, as in poetry and sculpture and music, much that was for a time sensational and popular has been discarded by the way-side. Wide and deep interest in painting that represents nature has always existed from the first and is preferred by the majority today.

The strange, the eccentric, and the bizarre deserve their day in the arts, as in human nature, but it seems likely that both painters and choosers of pure abstraction in painting will, with time, decrease rather than otherwise.

They may modify but not erase public taste for the familiar, the admired, the beloved, and the feared in nature and man. The Sierra Madre painters seem to be mainly for perpetuating these objectives.

Lab on Ice . . .

Glacier Study Mirrors 'Creeping' Earth

In a glacier's flow of a few inches a day Geologist Robert Sharp sees a greatly speeded-up version of the ponderous creeping of rock masses that goes on continually within the earth's crust.

The observations are being made at what probably is the California Institute of Technology's most unusual laboratory—the Blue Glacier on the northeast slopes of Mt. Olympus in northwestern Washington.

"Glaciers are living, dynamic geology," said Dr. Sharp, chairman of Caltech's Division of Geological Sciences. "We hope to relate the formation of structures in glaciers to the formation of structures in rocks."

THE GEOLOGIST, who left the campus Aug. 4 for his third cool six-week stint of camping beside the Blue Glacier, explained that in rocks scientists can see only the results of deformation from accumulated stresses. The actual movement in rocks normally is too slow to be observed.

However, in glaciers, which in reality are a special type of rock composed of crystals of ice, the accumulation of stress and the resulting movements can be measured as they occur. The resulting structures are comparable to those found in a great body of metamorphic rock.

Dr. Sharp and his colleagues also seek to learn how a glacier flows as a plastic solid down to a mountain valley, how parts of it move faster than others, how stresses are generated and oriented, and how its crystal fabric is formed and changed.

THE RESEARCH began in 1957 as an IGY project and will continue at least two more years under a National Science Foundation grant, provided the permission of the National Park Service is granted. The Blue Glacier and one in Norway which British scientists are investigating are two of the more thoroughly studied small valley glaciers.

Dr. Sharp became interested in glaciers because, although they play a major role in human affairs, so little was known about them. Not only are they great reservoirs of fresh water, they also strongly influence climate. There is enough glacial ice on earth to apportion 12,000,000 tons of it to each man, woman and child.

The researchers are making their study of the lower one and one-eighth miles of the Blue. It is fed by accumulation basins of ice which are at higher elevations and connect with the lower section via an icefall.

"This section is a little more than a half mile wide and nearly 900 feet thick," Dr. Sharp said. "A minimum thickness of about 100 to 150 feet is required for the weight of the ice to overcome its integral rigidity and the frictional resistance at its base to induce it to flow to lower and warmer zones where ice melts to water. Much greater pressure would be required to start flow in glaciers of polar regions because there the colder temperatures extend deeper into the ice, producing more rigidity."

INCIDENTALLY, 40 feet below the Blue's rough surface the temperature remains at the freezing point. It does not vary a fraction of a degree winter or summer. This is true of all "warm" glaciers. If a "hot point" bore is pushed into these depths, the melted ice around it will remain water there indefinitely.

Measuring a glacier's flow is done with stakes and deep holes. Fifty stakes have been set into the surface of the Blue at strategic places. The stake pattern is surveyed periodically. Changes in it indicate the horizontal surface flow pattern.

The vertical flow pattern is determined from deep holes bored vertically. The investigators measure how much and where these holes are bent or inclined year after year by the flow of the ice. The Caltech group has put down four such holes 400 to 750 feet deep. Pipe is pushed into them and filled with water and anti-freeze. This is to permit inclinometers to be lowered into the pipes to record how much the ice has deformed them.

IT IS ESTIMATED that the oldest ice in the Blue was formed 200 to 300 years ago. Some ice in glaciers near the poles is believed to be 10,000 years old. Ice forms constantly at the head of a glacier and melts at its terminus. Crystals of glacial ice, which reform from snow, become coarser with age. Those at the terminus of the Blue sometimes reach the size of a fist.

Occasionally, glaciers make strange noises. There are cracking sounds as the ice breaks under stress. Then there may be hissing. This is air escaping under pressure as it is expelled from spaces between the ice crystals. Sometimes the air collects in pockets, which accounts for the explosions that occur in icebergs. Glaciers are said to be charged with explosive.

At its fastest part, the Blue flows a foot a day. Close to the sides and in its depths the flow is much slower, but generally the flow pattern is pretty steady. Some glaciers advance up to several feet a day. Others have reached speeds up to 100 feet a day which may continue several months.

VILLA
VIEWSBy Toni Maurin
SYcamore 7-9634

And still summer stretches on and on. It seems as if this has been the longest one in history, starting back about February. Vacations still take top billing in the news although they will soon be replaced by what appears will be a rip-roaring political campaign. One by one the hats are being thrown in the ring and the clang of shovels is almost deafening as the diggers start turning over the different treasures of dirt which will smear each and every candidate urged into the magic circle of politics.

I wonder if young mothers still look at their male babies fondly and say, "Someday you may be President," or if they wish that they may be spared the indignity of political fame?

THE JAMES Smiths of Sierra Madre Villa with their son, Duncan, joined the Lee Wagners of Newport Beach in a trip to Ensenada, where they stayed for a five-day weekend at Papagaya's lapping up the Mexican hospitality and charm.

DR. AND MRS. Clete Dorsey of Fairpoint are back with their two children, Steve and Ann, from a trip to Michigan, where they proudly introduced their daughter to their family. They jetted both ways.

BABY SITTERS were at a premium last Friday night due to the fact that the Marshall graduates in the area were attending a hobo party. The party was given cooperatively by Sharon Greiner, Jan Nash and Janet Smith at the Smith home on Las Lunas Ave. There were about 30 young people joining in the fun.

THE WILLIAM F. Nash poolside on Mesa Loa Lane was the scene of the regular bridge club's luncheon this week. They dunked (in the pool, that is), ate and played cards all afternoon. The members include Mesdames Laurence Deitzel, J. C. Wilfong, Neal Batterson, Harry Pulaski, John Wills, Ward Clark and L. T. Greiner. A few weeks ago the entire bridge club went down to Long Beach to visit Mrs. E. H. Bucher, a former hillite and member of the club. She is now living in her own apartment at the Villa Riviera overlooking the ocean.

IT'S REAL hard to locate the George Holmes family on weekends unless you choose to go beachward. The entire family spends each weekend on their boat, the "Sundown." Matter of fact, they even turned their old dog in on a new toy poodle to fit the boat.

GOT THE word that the Harold Zook home on Mesita Road has been sold and will be occupied by the Ken Gardners.

THE ROBERT D. Olins are now settled in their new home at 1270 Wynn Road. They bought the former Pember home. They have three young children. Their eldest daughter is Vickie, aged 9, then Jeffrey, 7½, and finally Sherri, 6½. Mr. Olin has his own television repair and sales company in Monterey Park, namely, Bob's TV. They were delighted to welcome Mrs. Olin's brother, Marvin Kopelson, who came out from Akron this week to spend three weeks with them before returning to school to start his medical degree.

MRS. H. C. TUMILTY of Sierra Madre Villa has as her visitors for the month her mother, Mrs. Sara Benedict, and her cousin, Miss Carol Fisk, visiting from Pittsburgh. When I talked to her over the weekend they were anxiously awaiting news of a new grandchild. Such young grandparents, you've never seen!

THIS LITTLE PIG ISN'T GETTING THE BRUSH OFF— Instead he is getting the brush up for his entry in the big livestock show at the 32nd annual Los Angeles County Fair in Pomona, Sept. 18 through Oct. 4. Administering the beauty treatment is pretty Marilyn Bensango, coed at Mt. San Antonio College. More than 6,000 head of large and small stock will be on display throughout the exposition.

UP ON ...

Hastings Hill

One of the more pleasant ways to spend these mid-summer Saturday evenings is to take the whole family to the "horse park," or Eaton Canyon Park to be formal, eat your picnic supper under the trees and then sit around the fire circle and watch a movie. Last Saturday scores of Hastings Ranchers, large and small, learned about cosmic rays from an exciting science film.

DESPITE ALL the industry and stores surrounding us, we still maintain a little of the ranch flavor of our neighborhood. We spotted a coyote dashing across Sierra Madre Blvd. the other evening, running from among the KWKW bushes on up Sierra Madre Villa.

HOME AGAIN after a trip to New Orleans and St. Louis and environs are Draper and Lenna Jennings. Their daughters, Judy and Jeanne, who left home as soon as school was out to visit back East, came home with their parents.

A LOVELY long weekend was enjoyed by Cheryl and Bruce Graham, who were guests aboard a sailboat, spending a leisurely Saturday and Sunday moored at Moonstone Bay, Catalina.

LOOKS AS though the Ranch is going to be a bit more crowded than it has been for the past couple of weeks. B. J. and Ted Donald with daughters, Joan and Sue, returned from Northern California where they spent part of their time with B. J.'s parents and the remainder of their holiday at Lair of the Bear, Cal's summer camp. Duffy and Bob Jacobson, with Pete and Kathy, had a full week of sunning themselves at Balboa. Ann and Ted Glaser had a fine time at Lake Arrowhead. Even Asta, Ted's eye-dog, relaxed so far as to chase a chipmunk or two. The Shimers, Gwen, Bill, Chip, Wendy and Jim, have returned from a two-week stay at a mountain resort just west of Evergreen, Colo.

FRIENDS AND neighbors of Hazel Gittinger were sorry to hear of the death of her sister in Seattle. Hazel flew north two weeks ago when she heard tests had proven her sister to have leukemia. It evidently was the fast-moving kind since she had only a week with her sister before she died.

JEANNIE AND Bill Cum-week down there. They were visited during that time by the Arthur Laufers and the J. F. Galbraiths.

miskey are recuperating after a big, BIG weekend at Las Vegas. Seems as though they did everything there was

Stan Rigbys
Entertain Classmates

The Stanley Rigbys, 1046 Cynthia, were hosts at a reunion of their high school alumni residing on the west coast.

Nine couples and 19 children were in attendance to talk over school days spent at Merrillville High School, Merrillville (near Gary), Ind.

Guests from Pasadena, Orange, Rialto, San Bernardino, Van Nuys, Granada Hills, Reseda and North Hollywood were joined by Mr. and Mrs. James Olsen of Tucson, Ariz.

The Olsens, with their children, Jana and Mark, were houseguests of the Rigbys for several days. While in Southern California they visited Disneyland.

Mrs. Irving Neuman of Van Nuys flew to Indiana after the party to attend the class of '46 reunion. She took messages and snapshots from the local group with her.

Mrs. Olsen and Gary Thompson of San Bernardino were members of the bridal party when Mr. and Mrs. Rigby were married in 1950.

Sherry Fenton
Has Recent Slumber Party

Sherry Fenton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Fenton, 1165 Coronet, was hostess at a slumber party.

Guests arrived in time to have a swim before bedding down for a long night of chatter.

In attendance were Diane Siegle, Susan Roberts, Karen Bradford, Joyce Goudge, Lynn Miller, Ellen Whited and Carol Langstaff.

To do and saw everything there was to see. Incidentally, Pasadena Public Library asked Jeannie to leave her display of antique dolls at the new Hastings Branch for another month because of the interest and pleasure they were causing. Those of you who have not seen them certainly should stop by and have a look-see. Even the boys in the family, big and small, will enjoy them.

THOSE OF us who knew Ethel and Russ Kraus and daughters, Stephanie and Linda, were tickled to death to see them when they blew into town last week from their home in Scottsdale, Ariz. Evidently Arizona is agreeing with them all because they look wonderful. The girls, of course, were a bit of a shock because when they left the Ranch they were little girls and now they are young ladies. Stephanie is even going steady and has the class ring to prove it. They left last weekend for San Francisco to give the Bay area a whirl.

WE ALL know it takes a lot of people to make Little League a success. However, I feel Larry Barr and Vic Harris should have a tip of the hat for their loyalty in keeping us posted as to what was going on with our teams. Larry wrote all the publicity, which wasn't easy nor a "10-minute job," and Vic was responsible for getting pictures of the boys—that wasn't easy either with the kids all going in different directions.

JOHN CALDECOTT is doing right well after having to take time out for a bit of surgery.

MARTY NEWTON is keeping herself busy this week looking after her 5-month-old niece while the young lady's parents are having a holiday for themselves.

THOSE OF you who have not visited CF Guild's newly opened "Bargain Cottage for Cystic Fibrosis" are missing out on a lot of fun and bargains, too. It's amazing how many different things have been donated to the store. Aside from very nice clothing for all ages, there's a baby buggy, aluminum barbecue, washing machine, linens and all sorts of pretty and unusual bric-a-brac.

Lucie and Marge.

PHOTO EXHIBIT

SACRAMENTO—Two Canadian photographers will be among the exhibitors included in the 19th North American International Photographic Exhibit at the California State Fair and Exposition Sept. 2-13. Exhibit selections were made from a total of 847 entries in the black and white and color prints sections of the NAIPE held each year under the joint sponsorship of the California State Fair and the Sierra Camera Club of California's capital city.

DEB COPENHAVER, world's champion cowboy, takes to the air on 7-11, one of the toughest bucking horses in the country. Millions Leave Them There!

Accompanied by a Prayer

Many a letter starts on its journey through the mails bearing a message that will not be found within the envelope. It accompanies the letter, nevertheless. Such messages are prayers offered by the sender when the letter is sealed or when it is dropped into the mail box. It is often a prayer by a parent for a son in the armed forces, a daughter in a hospital, or for those in anxiety from many causes.

Prayer, with a firm belief in its power, can accomplish wonders. The occasion may be a mass disaster or a purely personal and intimate matter.

How can you make your prayers effective? By first learning how to pray and practicing a faith. The church that best suits you can be of tremendous help in this direction. Here, through active participation in the services you can learn to pray effectively. Prayer is dynamic.

With the hope that it will, in some measure, foster and help sustain that which is good in family and community life, this feature is sponsored by the business firms and organizations whose names appear in this space.

Start Work On Seawater Conversion

Work on California's first general purpose sea water distillation plant began recently at a site adjacent to Southern California Edison Co.'s Mandalay Beach Steam Station near Oxnard.

Paul J. Langlie, Edison district manager, said that the pilot distillation plant will have a capacity of approximately 100,000 gallons a day.

The equipment is being designed and fabricated by Cleaver-Brooks Special Products, Inc., of Waukesha, Wis. Its over-all cost is estimated to be about $250,000. Delivery of the equipment is scheduled in early September and the plant should be in test operation in the first part of November.

MR. LANGLIE emphasized that it will be an experimental unit. It is not expected to produce water at a cost competitive to present sources, including that imported by agencies such as the Metropolitan Water District, but will be used primarily for research and development and possibly to supply a portion of the fresh water needs of the Mandalay steam generation station, he said.

An advantage of locating such a plant near a steam generation station is that it can utilize residual heat from the station and may bring the cost within the range of feasibility.

Simply stated, the Edison distillation plant will utilize a multi-stage flash evaporator. This is a partitioned and heated chamber in which air pressure is progressively lowered, by condensation of vapor thereby progressively reducing water's boiling point. The vapor is condensed at distilled water.

The design of Cleaver-Brooks was selected for this experimental station by Edison from several proposals offered by various manufacturers because it seemed to offer flexibility for test operation at a reasonable cost.

THIS FIRM has been building evaporators for commercial clients and the armed forces, for several years and recently built the sea water evaporator for the nation's first atomic-powered aircraft carrier, the new U.S.S. Enterprise.

Mr. Langlie said the production from the plant can be used as a source for feedwater to the Mandalay station boilers.

In addition, he said, this unit is significant because the conversion of approximately 100,000 gallons per day is an amount great enough to test methods which may eventually lead to commercial production of potable water at a figure competitive to higher than average water sources in some areas of

LAFF OF THE WEEK

"All right, so I got things a little mixed up... Can't you two just flip a coin instead of acting like spoiled children?"

Garden Notes . . .

Ills of Wilted Lawn, Dry Blooms Often Superficial

To return from vacation is often to meet with a rude awakening. The mark of neglect is everywhere evident—in the frayed dryness of your lawn, the droopiness of a bed of annuals or in the faded blooms that have gone to seed in your roses. When you come right down to it, only the weeds seem to thrive.

It sounds awful and it is. But after the first shock, a second appraisal will show that the trouble is largely superficial and easily remedied. Cutting, trimming and watering will do wonders for the lawn, and a feeding will green it up in a matter of days. Cutting back bedraggled roses and feeding them will prepare them for late summer and fall bloom. Up-rooting faded annuals and spading the beds will leave only some weeding to bring things back to normal.

BUT AFTER this is done, there is still the need for something fresh — for new color to brighten your bare spots. And here is where you look for the nearest sign of the California Association of Nurserymen.

Quickest and brightest color will come, naturally, in the many pot and container-grown plants which nurserymen offer already in bloom.

Standouts are the Chrysanthemums, which probably offer the biggest splashes of color for your money.

Also, pots of Tuberous Begonias in full bloom are inexpensive and showy. What's more, they are long-term investments. Sink either of these in the ground where bare spots are obvious, or use them as container plants higher than average water cost.

MANY ANNUALS will start to show color in no time after you set them out in the garden. Marigolds, for instance, are often in bloom in the nursery flats from which you buy them. And the fluffy blue of Ageratum is evident wherever you visit a nursery these days. The multi-colors of Petunias and the blazing red of Scarlet Salvia lend their cheer to the garden in distress.

Don't be content with only these. A tour of the nursery will offer many ideas for quick color, such as Fuchsias, Marguerites and Perennial Asters. Moreover, such a tour will lift you as well as your garden out of the post-vacation slump.

Motor Quits, Fog In—Marlin Hits

By Al Miyadi
HARVARD JOE—In Santa Monica, there's a deckhand by the name of Harvard Joe. In any case, Harvard, apparently tiring of both duties and a straight diet of barracuda, decided on a fishing trip to the Horseshoe Kelp.

So on Saturday, despite a heavy fog, Harvard Joe and his pals fearlessly steamed past the Long Beach Breakwater in their 16-footer.

And as these things do happen, before he or his pals could holler "Hook-up," the motor quit.

"Well, by gosh," said Harvard, "While you guys are fishing the motor, I think I'll fish me a few yellowtail."

With that, Harvard Joe baited up with a near-dead sardine and let her fly.

Naturally, a 157-pound marlin hit the bait.

And before the fog had fully lifted, Harvard Joe had boated the Horseshoe Kelp's first marlin of the season.

ON THE BEACH—Hiro Hirabayashi, L. A., among San Diego's second fish-off winners with a 21.3 yellowtail. Earlier in the year, Hiro took a 68-14 bluefin tuna off San Clemente Island. Skipper Arnold Cook, of Pierpoint's Hurricane, reports Toyon Bay loaded with bluefin tuna. "I raised three schools the other day, but I just couldn't get 'em to work," said Cook.

The water temperature at the Horseshoe last week tumbled nine degrees, to season's coldest of 54. The scooters and yellowtail promptly went to lam. Then, Sunday, the temp shot up to 71 and the yellows really went to town.

The DFG says Southern California waters, roughly bounded by Pt. Conception and the Mexican border, San Clemente Island on the outside, are the only remaining pockets of warm water on the Pacific Coast. Waters off Seattle have gone down seven degrees.

Curiously enough, the only boats working the Santa Barbara Islands are from 22nd St. and Paradise Cove.

Star is owned by Bryant Morris and the Deep Hole is located just north of the Cove, which is owned by his father, Joe.

"Reject Special," incidentally, on Cliff Fellow's private boat checked in with limits of halibut, two white sea bass, five barracuda, 12

WINNERS—From the telephone book this week these five winners: Herman Sweigart, 2235 Allston, Montebello; Edwin H. Kulp, 1506-B Berkely, Santa Monica; Urmia I. Cole, 15922 1/2 S. Vermont, Gardena; Robert Kesterson, 10046 La Tijera, L.A.; and LeRoy C. Toms, Mari-posa Ave., Sierra Madre.

Non-Prescription Drug
No Help for Obesity

(Presented as a public service by the Foothill District of the Los Angeles County Medical Assn.)

A widely used appetite suppressant has been found to be ineffective in helping obese persons, a group of eastern scientists reported recently.

The suppressant—phenylpropanolamine—is a common ingredient of weight-reducing drugs which are offered to the public without prescriptions. It has been estimated that about 100 million dollars is spent annually for such drugs, the scientists said.

Their report appeared in a recent issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

HEADED BY Dr. Joseph F. Fazekas of Washington, D.C., the group undertook the study to determine the merits of the non prescription drug as compared with dextro amphetamine, a prescription drug with known appetite suppressing qualities.

The authors said that any effective weight-reducing program must be administered by a physician who understands the psychological factors which are encountered by persons undergoing treatment.

To control these psychological factors, the scientists selected 80 obese mentally deficient subjects for their study. The subjects were physically normal and had been residents of the institution for a number of years. Their body weight had been recorded monthly since admission.

THE AUTHORS explained that the subjects had never been under any dietary restrictions and their daily food intake consisted of a well-balanced diet known to contain about 3,000 calories which was well above their energy requirements.

The 80 subjects were divided into four nearly equal groups and the blind procedure was employed where neither the recipient nor the administrator knew what agent was being given.

The subjects were given one of the drugs under investigation three times a day, one hour before meals, for a period of six weeks. To make certain of their ingestion by the subjects, the drugs were given by cottage supervisors.

According to the authors, "Phenylpropanolamine, when administered in recommended doses, and even in twice the supposedly therapeutic doses, failed to effect a statistically significant reduction in weight."

"The administration of dextro amphetamine was associated with a statistically significant reduction of weight. The weight loss apparently results primarily from a reduction of food intake due to a diminution of appetite."

THEY CONTINUED. "The results of the present investigation lend support to the concept that phenylpropanolamine does not exert a marked central nervous effect, at least insofar as appetite reduction is concerned."

The scientists concluded that in view of the many psychological and physiological factors involved, as well as the recognized increased incidence of certain diseases in the obese population, weight reduction should be supervised by physicians, particularly when drugs are used.

International Travel Up 40 Pct. In Quarter

International travel by Californians increased more than 40 per cent during the second quarter this year as compared with the corresponding quarter of 1958, with national figures showing a 4 per cent increase, the Automobile Club of Southern California announced yesterday.

For the 12-month period from July 1958 through June 1959, passport issuances by the State Department were up 7 per cent over the previous year nationally.

Issuance and renewal of passports between April and June this year totaled 43,647 in the Golden State, a 41.2 per cent increase over the same quarter last year when 30,921 such transactions took place, State Department statistics revealed.

The Los Angeles-Long Beach metropolitan area furnished a large proportion of American world travelers during the April-June quarter, ranking second only to the New York City-Northeastern New Jersey area. Some 70,000 passports were issued or renewed for the latter center, while Los Angeles-Long Beach accounted for 25,626.

California was the second state in number of travelers with New York, where 71,202 passports were issued or renewed, in first place.
